Enhanced Mapping Capabilities for all Descartes Routing and Scheduling Solutions

Descartes has recently made enhancements to the map processing technology used within most of our routing and scheduling solutions. We listened to your requests for improved rendering and geocoding, and the ability to take advantage of the expanded content that is now available in map data such as traffic information and truck routing restrictions.

Through the embedding of Telogis Geobase mapping technology capabilities we now offer enhanced mapping and content information for most of the Descartes Routing and Scheduling Solutions.

Below is a partial list of features and benefits that are being rolled out over time.

New Features and Benefits Include:

- Improved map image quality
- Access to expanded road data including hazardous , height, weight, width and length restrictions
- Support for historical traffic patterns
- Real-time traffic information
- Access to points of interest in the map database
- Fast map rendering
- Improved geocoding speed and accuracy
- Support for larger geographic areas
- Internationalization
- And more...

Availability

The new mapping technology and content will be available in most of Descartes Routing and Scheduling Solutions and are being rolled out in phases. Capabilities, such as advanced map rendering and geocoding are already available in some of the solutions. We encourage you to contact your Descartes representative to further understand the roll-out schedule, or better yet – attend the Descartes User Group (April 14-16 in Atlanta, GA) to learn more.
